A TORY FOREIGN MINISTER.

There is a wide spread revolt against President Cleveland for appointing as minister to Italy a British dude who wears knee pants and has only a nominal residence in this country at a Long Island summer resort. The Van-Alen appointment is retching the stomach of Harper's Weekly which at first defeuded the appointment. The sen ate's confirmation is merely formal. It is a fitting sequence to Cleveland's treachery to the Geary law, an act declared constitutional by the Supreme Court, and for violation of which a common citizen would be arrested, and very severely dealt with by a federal court. In its last issue Harper's surely condemns this latest freak of Wall stree nabobeny.

That an American president should appoint an odious renegade of the Brit ish aristocracy to so high a position as Minister to Rome is revolting to all the people of this Republic. That in all the sixty-five millions of American cit izens Cleveland could find only a peaked headed summer followed Tory to represent them in King Hubert's court is a humiliating confession. Here are some expressions of Democratic papers:

The New York World is sick of eat ing Cleveland crows. In a fit of dyspeptic disgust the great organ refused longer to work in Cleveland harness, and bursts the golden bonds which have hitherto bound it to Cæsar's column. Such an exhibition of independence from such a source is so refreshing we take the liberty of reprinting the World's editorial utterances, and respectfully commend them to that class of hallucinated Democrats who think that Cleveland is greater than his party. Here is what the World says:

We are frank to confess, however shocking it may sound to the superserviceable party flunkies who seem to assume that the president can do no ment as that of Van Alen it would not dertaking. have shown as much interest in his nomination and election as it did, And we believe we express the sentiments of tens of thousands of Mr. Cleveland's warmest admirers in the late campaign. If this be treason, make the most of it.

ONE-CENT POSTAL SERVICE.

Postmaster-General Bissell is ex pected to devote considerable attention in his annual report to the discussion of the projected one-cent postal service. He believes that the inauguration of the service is impossible at the present time, owing to a deficit of $8,000,000 in the postal funds in the treasury.

Were letter postage 10 cents instead of 2, a Democratic postmaster-general, under the methods that prevail under the present administration, could find no way to reduce it. There are too many hungry Democratic would-be office holders to be fed to permit of any. thing in the nature of reduction in charges of any kind for the public good. It is a favorite amusement of Democrate to berate and vilify John Wanamaker, but the fact is that the postoffice department was never so cheaply and efficiently administrated, unless it were under the guidance of Benjamin Franklin, as it was under Wanamaker.

It has not been the policy of the United States to make the postoffice department a source of revenue. It has been considered better suited to the wants of the people to give good ser- are improving. vice, and to extend postal routes wherever they were needed, even if list. part of the cost were borne by general taxation, that is, in practice, by approp rations made by congress. There is always a deficit in the department, but that has not prevented Republican administrations from improving the service. Mr. Cleveland's postmaster-general does nothing to improve the service, and yet reports a deficiency nearly twice as great as the normal.

Under the new administration we shall see matters changed and the next Republican postmaster-general will give a one-cent postal rate, if the people of the United States demand it, without bankrupting the treasury. The Second Class Tourist Parties That Now Go Quickly, Cheaply and Merrily. It is now possible to cross the continent to San Francisco and make friends to take a numbered seat in a sleeping car and go through with the chance Asahel Gardner and wife went to the that no one but the conductor and the train newsboy would ever speak to you.

The new way is by means of what are called tourists' excursions. They are run at second class rates, but on the fastest time and with special cars. The conductors will take a first class passen rived with his family and taken up his ger if such a one should offer himself. residence on the Pearson farm about 2 There are at least two of these companies running personally conducted excursions over opposition lines, and both ad vertise very low rates and quick time.

The cars are plenty good enough for anybody, but are not as ornate as the regular palace cars. In them the people start at New York or Boston and go through without change, eating their meals in dining cars out as far as Council Bluffs, if they want to, and stopping at dining stations along the rest of each route. A great many, who push to the farthest extreme that economy which is the distinctive characteristic of such carloads, carry their own fare with them in baskets and either buy nothing but tea and coffee or even make that for themselves on the road.

The passengers in the first class coaches on the same trains are quickly made aware of the fact that their trains carry nice carpet and rugs with his Newcomb these tourist parties, for they hear the laughter and singing and romping of the tourists, who by the end of the second day out are all acquainted with one another and bent on having a jolly and thriving business, and much flour is fraternal time. They share their delicacies, their paper covered novels and their hopes and fears with one another, stream out of the cars in great parties lected as closely as any other fall, and when there is a long stop to gather flow ers or to "take in a new town," and in all ways fraternize as though they had all known each other for years.

The circular of one of these excursion companies announces that it "guards its patrons against the presence of the imin the Methodist church of this place, migrant and the untidy" and against the intrusion of the way passenger. Everything that will contribute to the ing offensive is tolerated. Some of the cars have smoking rooms, but if there is one without it the men must go forward to the regular train smoker to enjoy their pipes and cigars. A special con-TUTT'S PILLS cure constipation ductor goes with each party and saves the tourists the annoyance of being awakened to show their tickets during each night.

The tourist cars look like regular sleepers in the raw, being built on the same plan, but not finished with the same elegance. Unlike the immigrant sleepers, they are equipped with carpets, curtains, mattresses, blankets. sheets. pillows, pillowcases, towels, combs, brushes, etc., requiring nothing of the kind to be furnished by the passenger. Each car has a stove for the making of tea and coffee, and each section can be fitted with ar adjustable table. A uniformed colored porter accompanies each car to make up berths, keep the car clean and to make himself useful.-New York Sun.

Anointed the Bridegroom.

There is a row in the fire department. It grew out of a joke played upon one of the paid men attached to Hose 17, who was to be married last night. Before dressing for the ceremony he went to the bathroom to have a bath. The boys had previously removed the lock from the door, and when he got into the tank they made their appearance and gave him a liberal painting with ointment used on horses' hoofs. His body was smeared with the sticky stuff, and then he was scrubbed down with brushes and water. A neighboring druggist was applied to, who recommended oil to remove the stuff. This only set the ointment all the harder, and the victim had to don his clothes and go to his wedding with his unique adornment.

No formal complaint has yet been odged at headquarters, but one will be when the honeymoon is terminated. Providence Journal.

The white rat is often kept by boys more, however, as a curiosity than as a pet and always under protest from their mothers. But boys lose interest and do not like care, so the poor creature is apt to be neglected and become an offense in the household. This need never occur with any rat that is cared for, especially if he is not confined to a close cage. The white rat is neither so intelligent nor, in my opinion, so pretty as his brown relative. A Race Between Pigeons and Bees. An aviculturist of Westphalia late y made a bet that 12 bees, released at a distance of three miles from the hives at the same time as 12 pigeons, would travel over the ground as quickly as the birds. The first bee entered the hive one quarter of a minute before the first pigeon reached its columbary. Three other bees arrived before the second pigeon, and the remainder of the competitors reached home simultaneously.
